An Attempt to Rob

Monday night about 9 o'clock a robber attempted to enter the residence of A. J. Allen on North Richard Street. The robber had got upon the roof of a porch by using a step ladder when Mrs. John Brice, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen, discovered him. She immediately gave the alarm, and telephoned word to the Allen Store. Her husband, John S. Brice, and brother, Charles Allen, started immediately for the home but by the time they arrived there the burglar had made his get away. However, a certain individual is under suspicion and it is hoped he will be apprehended.

Bedford Presbyterian Church

K. A. Bishara, Ph. D., Pastor

The Presbyterian Church will hold next Sunday morning, at 11 o'clock, the first Communion service of the new year, in which several persons will be baptized, and the new members publicly received and welcomed into the church. The sermon will be very brief. In view of the union services held during this "week of prayer," everybody is urged to go to some church on this next Sabbath day. And we extend a cordial invitation to all those who desire to worship with us.

St. James' Episcopal Church

Vicar Rev. Albert Aune

Sunday, January 10—Morning prayer and sermon 11 o'clock. Topic of sermon will be "Religion"

EVERYBODY-GO-TO-CHURCH

Expected That All of the Churches Will be Filled Next Sabbath.

Much interest is being manifested in the Union Week of Prayer services now being held by the Protestant Churches of Bedford. The attendance has been large, and the various ministers in turn have been bringing strong and helpful messages. The service in the Lutheran Church tonight, at which Rev. J. A. Eyler will preach, will be the last of the union services. But as a fitting climax to this week's meetings the churches have planned an Everybody-Go-To-Church Sunday for next Sabbath. This is a commendable object and we trust that the people of the town will cooperate with the churches in carrying out this plan. There are enough people in Bedford who could go to church to tax the capacity of all of the churches of our town. For once let us see if this result cannot be realized.

Rain or shine, warm or cold, make your plans to go to church next Sabbath. Find the church of your choice and go to church, at least once, and if possible, twice or thrice. Do you not owe this much to yourself, or your family, as well as to God and the church? Have not the people of Bedford a right to be proud of the churches of their town? In appearance, in attendance, and in the efficiency of their service to the community, are they not a valuable asset to our town? Is there a single individual, or a single family who would want to stay in Bedford if the churches of our town were to close their doors and cease all their activities? If not, then there ought not to be a single individual or family unwilling to encourage the work of the churches by their presence and support. Hence we say let the people of Bedford go to church next Sabbath, let all the people of Bedford go to church next Sabbath. Whether you are old or young, rich or poor, whether you have been in the habit of going to church or not, fall in line for next Sabbath. Show your good will. Encourage the pastors. Help make a record for your church. Give yourself a good conscience with which to go to bed Sunday night.

Below is the announcement of services in the various churches:

Episcopal Church, Rev. Albert Aune, Rector—Public service at 11 a. m.

Trinity Lutheran, Rev. H. E. Wiedand, Pastor—11 a. m. Communion service; 7:30 p. m. sermon by pastor, subject: "My Business."

Methodist Episcopal, Rev. G. W. Faus, Pastor—Morning sermon at 11 o'clock, "A Desirable Marriage;" at 7:30 p. m. an evangelistic sermon and service, in which the Red Song Books will be used, with a full chorus choir to lead the singing.

Presbyterian, Rev. K. A. Bishara, Pastor—Public service at 11 a. m., with baptism and reception of members; 7:30 p. m. sermon by pastor. St. John's Reformed, Rev. J. Albert Eyler, Pastor—Morning sermon at 11 o'clock, subject: "Good Intentions;" evening sermon at 7:30, "Saved, Converted" (two words often heard at the Tabernacle).

Union Mass Meeting—Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock a Union mass meeting will be held at the Lutheran Church to which all are invited, and at which time the committee appointed at the union Sunday afternoon meeting three weeks ago will report.

Struck in Head by Bullet

Tuesday afternoon as Seibert Taylor, mail clerk on the Huntingdon and Broad Top Railroad, was returning from town to the mail car at the depot at this place, he was struck in the back part of the head with a twenty-two calibre rifle bullet. Mr. Taylor was walking on the path that leads from the bridge to the station, near the Blackburn-Russell Company's wholesale house, when the bullet struck him. He returned to town and had the bullet removed by Dr. Ayres.

The bullet struck him with force sufficient to flatten one end of it. Mr. Taylor was able to resume his work but considered it a very narrow escape from a more serious injury. He has no knowledge from where the bullet came as he neither heard the shot or saw anyone near.

Presbyterian Churches

YOUNG MEN MEET

Association Organized Monday Night of This Week at

ENTHUSIASTIC GATHERING

Over Fifty Have Already Signed as Members—Officers Elected and Committees Appointed.

Fifty-two men applied for admission to the Young Men's Association of Bedford Monday evening, the night of the formation of the organization in its newly furnished rooms in the Risenour Block. More than a score of applications have been received since the opening night, and it is estimated that the membership will jump to 200 before the end of the month.

The meeting opened with the Association's rooms well filled, and before it had gone far, additional arrivals had put standing room at a premium. Following the adoption of a constitution, the election of officers and a board of directors and the appointment of committees, the men inspected the three rooms which already had been fitted up by temporary committees. These rooms consist of a large lounge room with games and a Victrola; a reading room with books, magazines and writing desk, and a room for pocket billiards.

The constitution adopted, with a few minor changes, was that used by the county organizations of the Young Men's Christian Association. It was voted to have a senior and a junior organization. All men of eighteen years or over, and of good character, are eligible to membership in the senior organization. The juniors will have separate quarters, and the age limits will be from twelve to eighteen years. All senior members have the privilege of voting, but junior members are non-voting members.

In view of the fact that it is the purpose of the members to reorganize the Association into a Young Men's Christian Association as soon as the present body has demonstrated that it can thrive along right lines, it was suggested that the name of the body be as near as possible to that of the Y. M. C. A. Upon a vote of those present it was decided to call the organization "The Young Men's Association of Bedford."

Injured by Fall

Tuesday night of last week while Mrs. D. O. Smith was returning to her home on West Pitt Street, she had the misfortune to slip and fall, her head striking the ice on the pavement, causing concussion of the brain. She was assisted to her home, where for several days she was in a serious condition. Mrs. Smith is now able to be up and about the house some, but has no recollection of the fall.

Since the fall of snow of December 13 the pavements in many places of our principal streets have been covered with ice and numerous persons have fallen and received injuries. No effort was made by many property owners and tenants to free the pavements of the snow, and as a result of their indifference and negligence, pedestrians were forced to take to the middle of the road or take the chances of falling. Perhaps hereafter it would be wise upon the part of the borough authorities to enforce the ordinance pertaining to the cleaning of pavements, etc.

Marriage Licenses

Miles Clark Diehl and Pearl Blanche Pennell of Everett.

George Arnold and Stella M. Earnest of Bedford Township.

Clarence W. Rock of Napier and Della M. Hillegass of Juniata.

Clarence Weyant and Clara Oldham of Cessna, Rt. 1.

Arnold-Earnest

Friday evening, January 1, at the Reformed parsonage, Rev. J. Albert Eyler united in marriage George Arnold and Miss Stella Earnest. These are well known young people of Bedford, Mr. Arnold being associated with his father, William Arnold, in the contracting and building business, and Miss Earnest having for some time been employed by the Independent Telephone Company. The best wishes of their many friends go with them.

Rock-Hillegass

George Rock of Alum Bank and Miss Della M. Hillegass of Ryot were united in marriage at the Reformed parsonage, Bedford, Tuesday morning, January 5, by Rev. J. Albert Eyler.

Solomon Gephart

Sunday morning, January 3, Solomon Gephart died at his home in New Paris, aged 63 years and four days. The deceased was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gephart. He married Miss Ann Shradler, who preceded him in death on September 24, 1897. To them were given one daughter, who died when young, and one son, William, who resided with his father.

The funeral service was conducted Tuesday morning by Rev. A. F. Richards in the Evangelical Church at New Paris. Interment in the cemetery at Stone Church, near Fishertown. Caj.

Mrs. Isaac Hoffman

Mrs. Mary Hoffman died very suddenly at her home in Martinsburg Thursday afternoon of last week. She was a daughter of John and Mary Keith, members of pioneer families of Morrisville, and was born at Woodbury June 12, 1842. In 1863 she was married to Isaac Hoffman. The couple for many years resided in the vicinity of Woodbury and only a few years ago removed to Martinsburg. The husband, two sons and two daughters survive.

The funeral service was held last Sunday morning in the Church of the Brethren at Martinsburg. Interment was made in Martinsburg.

ARRESTED FOR ROBBERY

Bedford Young Man Confesses to Attempted Shooting and Theft.

Monday afternoon Howard Croyle of this place was arrested by Harry Fetter, Constable for Bedford Township. Croyle was taken before Justice of the Peace J. Reed Irvine, where Elliott Allison, a huckster of Alum Bank, brought a charge against him for shooting with intent to kill and rob. On the night of December 14, as Mr. Allison was driving over the road in a covered sled near the colored graveyard, west of Bedford, a bullet came crashing through the right side of the cover of his sled, the missile grazing the ear of Mr. Allison. Since that time Constable Fetter had been doing his best to locate the perpetrator of the deed, and succeeded in getting evidence enough to charge Croyle with the crime.

When taken to the justice's office Croyle confessed to the charge. He also admitted that he was the party that some time ago broke into the store of Harold S. Smith Co. and stole an overcoat, as well as breaking the large plate glass in D. W. Beam's hardware store some time later and stealing a revolver and a rifle. The revolver he used to shoot at Mr. Allison. Charges were brought against Croyle by Mr. Smith and Mr. Beam as well as by M. K. Allen, for robbery, the latter having some money stolen from the store about two weeks ago. In default of $1,000 bail he was committed to jail to await the action of the court at the January sessions.

Croyle is about 22 years of age, and has always been considered a respectable boy by those who knew him. It is alleged that he is of weak mind and that in committing the numerous crimes he has confessed to, he did not recognize their enormity.

L. Irene Cuppett

Last Saturday morning, January 2, about 9 o'clock death entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Cuppett, 419 South Richard Street, and claimed their beloved daughter, Irene, who was in her sixteenth year. About six weeks ago, while attending preparatory service in St. John's Reformed Church, she was seized with a hemorrhage from the lungs and succeeding attacks so weakened the frail body that the end was "but the fading of a flower."

Laura Irene Cuppett was the second daughter of John P. and Minerva (Gernand) Cuppett and was born in Mann's Choice on May 17, 1899. She attended school at that place until the removal of the family to Bedford two years ago, when she entered the local schools and proved a bright and diligent pupil, never absent nor tardy, and always obedient. At the time of her death she was a member of the Freshman Class, a violinist in the High School Orchestra, and an active member of the Reformed Church and Sunday School. Although of a modest and retiring disposition, Irene was a general favorite and had always a kind word or deed for all. During her illness she was cheerful and patient, ever hopeful that the coming of Spring and the flowers she so dearly loved would bring her, also, new health and strength. Her sickness was always brightened by her flower friends and the last loving tributes were many and beautiful. We may not know why this life, with its bright prospects, should be so brief, but we try to understand "The Father's pity toward us, and that in the removal of those who are dearest to us He is still loving and kind. Death separates, but reunites whom it separates." She is with Him and knows her "perfect day."

The funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home, Rev. J. A. Eyler officiating. The many friends who were present were deeply touched by the beautiful tributes to the faithfulness of the little girl and the message which her passing leaves with us. She was borne to her resting place in the cemetery at Mann's Choice by three uncles and three friends who have loved her since infancy: Robert, Clarence and Harry Cuppett; Harvey and William Miller, and William Faupel.

Five hundred and ten million tons of coal were mined in the United States during 1914, 60,000,000 short tons of 1913. The latter part of 1914 brought great activity in the coal fields, which condition showed the depression owing to the war, has reached its low ebb. Pennsylvania alone fell short about 25,000,000 tons, chiefly in Fayette and Westmoreland Counties. The production of lead has increased enormously, so has the mining of gold and silver. Zinc and copper have decreased in production.

THE SMART SEPARATE WAIST AND SKIRT

Braid and Buttons Favored Trimmings for Dresses and Suits

THE LITTLE GIRL'S HAIR

New York, January 4, 1915.

The separate waist is an established custom. Not necessarily the plain or tailored silk waist, but the dainty dress affair of net, lace, chiffon, batiste, fine linen or voile. These waists are made in various ways, from the simple waist of all one fabric to the one developed in two or more.

One fascinating French waist of white crepe de Chine trimmed in black was made with a vest in the front of finely hand-tucked white chiffon. The sleeves, although set in to the armhole very plainly, seemed a little fuller through the arm than the sleeves we have had recently. A deep cuff finished the bottom of the sleeves. A round collar, which was wired to stand up in the back and came to a slight V in the neck, was used on the waist. The only trimming was a border of black crepe de Chine cut in a Grecian square pattern and applied by hand to the collar, cuffs, and down the outer edge of the vest.

Although the waists with the small armhole seem to be very popular there are to be seen waists with the raglan armhole, and very handsome waists they are. One made with these raglan sleeves and a surplice front was developed in finely tucked net.

Accompanying the separate waist is the separate skirt, usually a suit skirt. It is made in various ways, usually to correspond with the jacket. It is to go with. With the advent of wider skirts, they are made, as a rule, circular or gored. The yoked skirts have also been having quite a vogue—the yokes cut straight around and in points on the hips or in the front, giving a wide variety in the development of skirts and helpful suggestions for the making over of skirts.

Although made up in the same material, the model used for the second illustration shows a smart model for the separate waist and skirt. The waist is called the Elsie Poiret waist, because introduced by Poiret's sister. It is often made in silk and worn with skirts of a different material and color. The skirt shows the close-fitting line with the attached circular flounce, which gives width and flare to the lower edge of the skirt.

The model in one material is developed in covert cloth, which is by far the most popular material now on the market. It is shown developed into one-piece dresses, suits and coats.

Aside from fur, braid is the most popular of the winter's trimmings. Narrow Hercules is used to bind edges, and the wide Hercules for banding on the bottom of tunics, skirts and jackets. The most practical and popular of the braids, however, are the narrow soutache braids. These are used for braiding designs on coats, jackets, skirts and dresses. Several rows of it are used for banding in place of the wide Hercules braid.

Buttons are also used to a great extent as trimming. The round bone buttons are very good, as well as the cloth-covered buttons, to match the dress or suit they are worn upon. Many of the covert cloth suits and dresses are trimmed with ball buttons covered with the covert. The buttonholes are bound instead of buttonholes with matching silk.

In the first illustration is an evening frock of delicately simple lines. The bodice is partly of chiffon and partly of tulle. The upper or yoke portion of the skirt is of tulle, while the skirt is of bordered chiffon. Developed in shell-pink or apricot color the dress is charming, as well as in white, light green or canary color. The dress might be developed attractively in charmeuse, with the bodice partly of charmeuse and partly of lace or net.

Children's clothes are following somewhat the outline of their mothers' and elder sisters. The skirts are being made fuller and instead of being cut straight up and down are cut with a little flare. The waistline is creeping up and in some dresses has reached the Empire line, which is coming in for mother as well.

Simplicity in fabric is the order of the day for the younger generation. Fancy little party dresses are sometimes made of silk or chiffon, but usually of fine batiste, linen or net. The trimming on the finest of dresses is usually hand-embroidery and a very little fine lace. Irish crochet and flet lace are both used a great deal for children's dresses, especially when combined with hand-embroidery.

In children's outdoor apparel there is no smarter way of clothing a child than with coat made in some simple but stylish manner, and hat made from the same material. Old rose broadcloth was used for a stunning child's coat. It was made Empire, with cuffs and high collar of fox. The hat was made of the old rose broadcloth, with a band of the fur around the crown and a bunch of silk balls in harmonizing shades of old rose on one side. The elastic which held the hat on was run through narrow ribbon the same shade as the broadcloth.

In Covert Cloth Comes a Short Jump Waist and Full Skirt

To go with these little suits are cunning little muffs made of the same fabric as the coat and hat, and trimmed with the same fur used upon the other garments. These are a very stylish addition to the little coat suits and one which is usually enthusiastically welcomed by the small girl.

The modes of dressing a little girl's hair depends greatly upon the hair itself. If it is curly it is comparatively easy to find some becoming way to dress it. At present curly hair is tied at the back of the top of the head, the curls falling down the back. The bobbed hair is not as fashionable as it was, but there is no prettier way of fixing the hair of the small girl who has straight hair, especially if there is not enough of it to form a nice braid. However, many mothers with straight-haired little girls are tying the hair in the same way as the child with curly hair, the only difference being that extra pams are taken in brushing the hair thoroughly each time the little girl is dressed.

HEALTHY HAIR SOFT, FLUFFY AND RADIANT

Beautiful hair does not just happen to be so, but is always a matter of care and proper nourishment of the hair roots. No matter if your hair is falling out, stringy, lifeless and full of dandruff, Parisian Sage, an inexpensive tonic, sold by all druggists, is all that is ever needed. It nourishes the hair roots and stimulates the growth of new hair. Even dandruff is entirely removed with one application, and itching scalp and falling hair cease; your hair will be bright, vigorous, soft and fluffy.

Whether your hair is oily, dry or brittle, Parisian Sage immediately removes the cause, and by toning up the scalp quickly restores the hair to its original brilliancy and vigor.

Parisian Sage can always be had from F. W. Jordan, Jr., and is a delightful and easily applied treatment that will never fail to act as a real and lasting benefit to your hair and scalp.—Adv.

ARGUMENT COURT

At a session of argument court held last week the following matters were considered:

First Dose Ends Indigestion, Heart-Burn or Gas on Stomach

The question as to how long you are going to continue a sufferer from indigestion, dyspepsia or out-of-order stomach is merely a matter of how soon you begin taking Tonoline Tabs.

People with weak stomachs should take Tonoline Tablets occasionally, and there will be no more indigestion, no feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach, no heartburn, sour risings, gas on stomach, or belching of undigested food, headaches, dizziness or sick stomach, and besides, what you eat will not ferment and poison your breath with nauseous odors. All these symptoms resulting from a sour, out-of-order stomach and dyspepsia are generally relieved five minutes after taking Tonoline Tablets.

Go to your druggist and get a $1 box of Tonoline Tablets and you will always go to the table with a hearty appetite, and what you eat will taste good, because your stomach and intestines will be clean and fresh, and you will know there are not going to be any more bad nights and miserable days for you. Tonoline Tabs freshen you and make you feel like life is worth living.

Tonoline Tablets cost $1.00 for a 50 days' treatment. At druggists or mailed by American Proprietary Co., Boston, Mass.—Adv.

13 Dec. 4t.

The German navy sprung a surprise on England when they opened fire upon east coast towns. No one was aware of any German battleships being present when the shelling began. Two English warships were in port but they had no steam nor were they aware of any danger. The towns along the coast are alarmed for fear of another secret German breakout some place—any old place. The confidence of the British navy is weakening as every one along the coast felt perfectly sure that the navy was large and alert enough to prevent any bombardment of English territory. The Germans pulled one off on them that time.

Lafayetteville

January 5—Rev. Jerre Reffner of Juniata spent a few days recently with his sister, Mrs. J. W. Heisel. He preached an excellent sermon in the Reformed Church at this place Friday evening.

We are sorry to note the illness of Mrs. Joseph Imbler.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Barclay and son Paul returned to their home at Roaring Spring on Sunday, after a week's visit with home folks.

Miss Fern Reffner, who is employed at Burger Ritchey's at Barley Corner, spent from Friday until Sunday with friends and relatives at this place.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Pressel and daughters, Alice and Mary, and Mrs. John Appleman and Mrs. Charles Houser spent Sunday afternoon with relatives at Brumbaugh.

Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Settlemeyer returned home Friday evening, after spending some time visiting relatives at Everett and on Clear Ridge.

Mrs. Mattie Ebersole, who is employed at O. L. Brumbaugh's, spent Sunday with Mrs. J. W. Heisel.

Misses Mary Lamborn, Carrie Heisel and Grace Settlemeyer and Ross Houser were guests a short time on Sunday at Wilson Reffner's.

Our school teacher, Joseph Campbell of New Enterprise, is boarding with Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Ripley.

CHRISTMAS CARDS

One of the biggest items in the postoffice clerk's job is handling the Christmas card traffic. A glance over the ordinary mantel piece at this time of year is apt to show from a dozen to twenty Christmas cards there displayed. This represents an absolute increase in postal traffic. Probably not more than one or two of these dozen to twenty people used to write any Christmas letters. No wonder that the average postoffice force are candidates for a sanitarium when the holiday is over.

Some sensible people make pretty good use of these cards. They may take the place of costly gifts that were more or less unnecessary. The sagacious individual cuts out needless presents from year to year. If a pretty card conveys the good cheer of the season just as well as a gift having no practical value, but costing some dollars, every one concerned is better off. The recipient is placed under no onerous obligation.

People of taste say it is not easy to find attractive cards. Those that have pleasing sentiments may be garish in color. Cards may be neat in typography and color, and yet have flat sentiments apparently written by the printer's devil. The great masters of poetry and prose furnish a wealth of quotations from which inspiring messages can be selected.

Just how much real sentiment there is behind all the cards, that weigh down the mail bag would be hard to say. Even the kids have their exchanges of cards nowadays, and your daughter of 10 may have a long list to be selected and addressed. The men seem to care little about these remembrances. Women are more open to the appeal of sentiment, and even a two-cent card may seem a pledge that a former tie of friendship is yet strong and vital.

GOOD BACKS FOR BAD

Bedford Residents Are Learning How To Exchange the Old Back For a Stronger One.

Does your back ache, feel weak and painful?

Do you suffer headaches, languor and depression?

Is the urine discolored, passages irregular?

The kidneys may be calling for help.

Weak kidneys cannot do their work. Give them the help they need.

To cure kidney backache you must cure the kidneys.

Use a tested and proven kidney remedy.

Doan's Kidney Pills have stood the test.

Convincing proof of merit in the following endorsement:

"I believe that a strain, caused by heavy lifting, brought on my kidney trouble. I suffered from a weak back and also had pain in my side. Doan's Kidney Pills helped me from the first and before long I was in much better health."

Price 50c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Eschelman had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y. Jan. 1, 2t.

LOOKING BACKWARD

Severe moralists used to have their spiritual inventories at stated periods. The close of the calendar year was a favorite time for such a stock taking.

A conscientious person was supposed to look back over the twelve months, and determine whether it had been a year of moral advance or retrogression.

A cheerful spirit of anticipation is a more healthful mood. It promotes a feeling of confidence which is half the victory.

At the same time one must be thoughtful indeed if the ending of the old year does not raise the question whether on the whole it has brought some new powers, and has been a period of gain or loss.

Every year should give one a little higher skill in his calling, and some better degree of control over one's spirit.

A person is a pretty dull workman if the year has not brought new tasks to be performed and new problems to be solved.

If one is doing the same old work, new ways of meeting its difficulties should have been seen. If the mind has been wide awake, a year of effort ought to have devised shorter cuts to efficiency, smoother methods of avoiding friction.

Similarly in the more intimate realms of personal contact and struggles with one's own weaknesses. A year of experience should leave every one riper and more resourceful.

Some of the inability to adjust oneself to one's surroundings should have been mastered. Somewhat more self-confidence, something more of independent initiative, a greater feeling of indifference to the vanities and vexations of the world, should have been acquired.

If one can spend an hour looking back to the preceding New Year, and find gains in such respects, there is no reason for regretting the rapid flight of time.

Heh! Heh! Heh!—Scratch! Scratch! Scratch! The more you scratch, the worse the itch. Try Doan's Ointment. For eczema, any skin itching. 50c a box.—Adv.

FORTUNES OF FRITZ

By JULES ODIN.

"I'd like to give you that dog," proceeded the man in the doorway. "I'd like for you to have it. He's a nice pup and I'm grateful for what you—"

"Oh, all right," said Bammett, absent-mindedly, frowning at the paper before him. Already he had forgotten his charity client and was vaguely annoyed at his chatter.

"I'll take him to your house," added the man. Then he vanished.

That was why Bammett, when he opened his front door that night, had the surprise of seeing Fritz. It always was a surprise to see Fritz, because most of him was where one didn't expect it. Reliable persons assured Bammett later that Fritz was a dachshund of good breeding, but Bammett always shook his head. He said Fritz was nothing more or less than a ball of string unwound and stretched out and that, for his part, he should think Fritz would establish telegraph stations on his head and tail in order to keep track of himself during his tortuous progress.

The annoying part of it was that every foot of Fritz's length was brimming over with affection, and if there is anything more annoying than being compelled, in spite of yourself, to love something you have made up your mind to dislike it has yet to be discovered.

With Fritz coiled up comfortably in his lap that evening Bammett had a sudden chill. He remembered that Mrs. Bammett disliked dogs vigorously. In fact, that was why they had never owned one heretofore. Bammett felt that he should have to pay dearly when his wife returned for the fit of abstraction that was responsible for his acquiring Fritz. And he was not disappointed.

Mrs. Bammett shrieked when she arrived from the train that week and was greeted by Fritz's head and shoulders and beaming eyes. The rest of him trailed off into the butler's pantry and was invisible.

"Where did that awful thing come from?" she demanded. "Henry Bammett, why on earth did you go and get a dog the minute my back was turned, when you know I hate the creatures? And he's so much dog!" she wailed, indignantly.

"I couldn't help it," said Bammett, after the manner of men. "He was thrust upon me!"

"There was plenty of time to run before all of him got there!" Mrs. Bammett insisted. "No human being could help seeing his approach hours before his total arrival! You've got to get rid of him!"

"Who can I give him to?" asked Bammett.

"Go away!" cried Mrs. Bammett to Fritz. Bammett, gazing at Fritz, brown, beaming and wagging, felt a new protecting affection stir within him. Surprisingly he patted the sleek head. "I'll dispose of him, somehow," he promised.

"Aren't you going to do anything about this dreadful dog?" Mrs. Bammett asked a week later.

"I thought you were beginning to like him," said Bammett. "You feed him!"

"I can't let a living thing starve to death right before my eyes!" she asserted, frigidly. "I suppose I would feed a convict, if he was helpless on my hands!"

"You might find somebody who would take him," she insisted the next night. Fritz had come contentedly and laid down across her feet. She frowned as she looked at him.

"You might push him away, you know," suggested her husband.

"I wouldn't hurt a helpless creature no matter how I hated it!" Mrs. Bammett told him, virtuously.

Bammett came home early one night and found Fritz in Mrs. Bammett's lap. She had the grace to blush.

"He just got up here," she explained, rapidly. "I was putting him down, when I stopped to notice how silky his hair is. If you cared anything for me you would have done something about him before this!"

Bammett rose to the occasion. "Your troubles are over," he told her. "The janitor of our building has promised that he'll take Fritz as a favor, though he doesn't care about dogs."

He paused. Mrs. Bammett, her arms about Fritz, whose tongue was hanging out from his sudden choking surge into her embrace, was glaring at her husband. "Henry Bammett!" she cried. "Give this poor, helpless puppy to a horrid old janitor who'll make him live in a coal cellar? Not if I know it. The idea! I don't believe you care anything about the dog at all. I shall keep Fritz myself if nobody else on earth cares enough about him to—"

"Fritz, old boy," interrupted Bammett, "you win!"

Napoleon Distanced.

An army of 1,000,000 men employed on one battlefield, under one command, was unknown to strategists of even so comparatively late date as the seventies. No great acknowledged master of the art of war ever took into action a force of even half this strength. The army which Napoleon led into Russia, which has hitherto held a record only challenged in the course of the Russo-Japanese war, consisted, roughly speaking, of about 600,000 men. On no battlefield did Napoleon personally handle more than 100,000 men, totaling his maximum at Wagram in 1809.

STOP BUYING EXPENSIVE COUGH REMEDIES

Make the Best at Home

Money spent for the old style, ready-made, cough syrups in bottles holding only 2 to 2½ ounces is very largely wasted, because most of them are composed principally of sugar and water. Yet you have to pay the same price as if it was all medicine. Stop wasting this money. You can make a better cough medicine at home at one-fifth the cost. Merely ask for 2 ounces (50c worth) of Schiffmann's Concentrated Expecto-rant. Mix this with one pint of granulated sugar and one-half pint of boiling water, which makes a full pint (16 ounces). This new, simple, pleasant remedy is guaranteed to relieve the worst cough or cold. Also excellent for Bronchial Asthma, Whooping Cough, croup, hoarseness and bronchitis. One bottle will make enough home-made cough medicine to probably last the whole family the entire winter. Children like it, it is so pleasant to take and it positively contains no chloroform, opium, morphine or other narcotics as do most cough mixtures. Keep it on hand in case of emergency and stop each cough before it gets a firm hold. The above druggist has been authorized to return the money in every single case where it does not give perfect satisfaction or is not found the best remedy ever used. Absolutely no risk is run in buying this remedy under this positive guarantee.—Adv.

DIPHTHERIA ANTITOXIN

Little Talks on Health and Hygiene by Samuel G. Dixon, M. D.

There are few absolute specifics known to medical science. In the majority of ailments to which mankind is heir the wise physician is he who studies his case with the idea of eliminating those things which hamper the natural functions and gives Nature every chance to restore her balance.

One of the few specific remedies that science has produced upon which the physician may depend to effect a cure is diphtheria antitoxin. Despite its common use in neutralizing the poison of this disease, few people realize how great a boon to mankind this discovery is. Within the memory of many physicians practicing today diphtheria was a disease before which the members of the profession were practically helpless. Thousands of young lives were sacrificed and whole communities were overcast by the shadow of death following epidemics of this disease.

Without the use of antitoxin the death rate from this disease often exceeds 40%. When diphtheria antitoxin is used in sufficient quantities immediately after the onset of the disease prompt recovery follows with few exceptions. Unfortunately one of the first evidences of diphtheria is sort throat to parents may appear to be only a slight cold. If this is really the onset of diphtheria the disease develops within a short time with terrifying rapidity into the more advanced stages. For this reason every case of sore throat among children should be watched with the greatest of care and wherever possible early medical attention should be secured.

Records of the State Department of Health which have been compiled show the results of the treatment of thousands of cases. They prove that the deaths from this disease, after the treatment with antitoxin, occur when there is delay in administering it.

From a death rate of zero on the first day it increases to 5% on the second day, 12½% on the third day, 22% on the fourth day and 39% on the fifth day. Antitoxin may be administered in enormous doses without danger. Cases are on record in the Department where 185,000 units have been required to effect a cure in an individual case.

Diphtheria antitoxin is not alone a curative agent but is also a preventive and should be used in immunizing doses to prevent the spread of the disease among those who have been exposed to it.

With this wonderful specific at the command of the medical profession there should be few deaths from diphtheria. Those which occur in the great majority of cases are due to the fact that the early symptoms have been overlooked or neglected by parents and the resulting delay in securing prompt antitoxin treatment.

PIN IN BODY 65 YEARS

Entered Throat, Extracted Through Ear and Cures Deafness.

Plumoth, Mich., January 4.—C. B. Truesdell, a farmer of Canton, when a boy swallowed a small pin which lodged in his throat and nearly caused strangulation. Last week, after a lapse of 65 years, a pin point was noticed protruding from his left ear. It was removed.

Mr. Truesdell had at times suffered nearly total deafness and constant pain in his head, and had the services of several physicians without relief, but now that the cause is removed his hearing is normal and the pain has ceased.—Philadelphia Record.

The Gazette is the leading newspaper of Bedford County and its circulation is far ahead of any of its contemporaries. As an advertising medium it is one of the best in this part of the state.

Regular subscription price per year $1.50, payable in advance.

Bedford, Pa.

FRIDAY MORNING, JAN. 8, 1915.

The Pennsylvania Railroad has determined to place orders for 170,000 steel rails, amounting to $5,000,000 in value.

Representative Gardner, Republican, of Massachusetts says he would spend $700,000,000 to prepare for war. The general appropriation is only $734,000,000. Wonder where he will get the money? Put on more taxes? There seem to be some unreasonable people in Congress too.

The next Speaker of the House at Harrisburg will be Ambler, a local optionist. He will likely name a committee favorable to a local option bill. It is hoped he will. Then the bill will have to be blocked in the Senate. It will be blocked or else the saloonists will tear Penrose's head off. They supported him and they expect some return. The lobbyists are on the spot to line up the opposition to any local option measure. If Penrose cannot stop the local option move in this session, the liquor traffic will come to an end by 1920 in Pennsylvania. Once Penrose loses his grip, the traffic is lost. He lost a cog by letting Brumbaugh run, but he needed him to maintain his own salary.

UNEMPLOYMENT AND WOMEN'S FASHIONS

The incessant changes in styles for women were called a great cause of unemployment at the convention held to discuss this subject the past week at Philadelphia. Miss Juliet Stuart Poyntz, who has made a study of the reasons why people are out of work, said that women continually make so many changes in wearing apparel, that manufacturers never know what to make until the last minute. They shut down while style changes are pending, then work overtime.

The reason why the average man spends less for clothes than the average woman is not that masculine clothing is essentially less expensive. It is more that the man wears his suit until it looks shabby. The woman merely wears hers until it looks behind the game, though it may still be perfectly neat and attractive.

As more and more women enter commercial careers and see things more in a business light, they seem somewhat averse to needless changes. The business girl's neat trim suit and walking shoes look more like standard masculine styles than anything the feminine world has devised for twenty centuries. Manufacturers that produce this kind of goods must be able to run with some degree of steadiness.

The number of women who follow closely the caprice of fashion is probably exaggerated. Hard working families have no money to throw away on whims. Slight concessions of price by merchants on goods that seem likely to go out of style are quickly snapped up.

The free use of advertising is a great stabilizer. The merchant with a stock affected by a fashion change knows how he can sell it without a great loss. All which tends to promote regularity of labor and employment.

THE MERCHANT AND HIS CREDIT

A traveling salesman was remarking the other day that he had sold the usual quantity of goods the past few months, in spite of the war and other depressing causes. But he had found many of his customers hard up because of the unusual number of requests for credit. It was his opinion that in both good and bad times the American people are getting in too easy going habits about payment of bills.

It is not always the hard pressed workman on short time who dodges the bill collector the most actively. Many of the well to do are habitually slow pay. They make requests for further accommodation with the air of conferring a lordly favor.

When the victim of ill health or other misfortune asks for a bill of goods on trust, it is often practically a request for charity. The merchant fails to see why he should carry the whole burden of the community's misfortune. So he charges up to his whole trade the expense of bad debts. Thus the frugal and thrifty, who may live even parsimoniously, are compelled to pay for luxuries for the extravagant.

There are of course some applications for credit that are legitimate. People have to take risks, start out on new ventures with small capital, seek better positions, or industry would stagnate. If fortune goes wrong, creditors must wait a reasonable time. But when people on wages or salary bank on their dreams, they commonly go broke.

Many people, finding a ten dollar bill in their pockets, feel sanguine, step high, and send the tradesman's wagons hustling with deliveries to their homes. The fact that old accounts are due is forgotten.

"The best New Year's resolution is to pay every debt you possibly can, even if you have to wear your old clothes to church." Thus concluded the salesman whose remarks suggested these reflections, and he was right.

YOUNG WOMEN ORGANIZE

Largely Attended Meeting Held on Thursday of Last Week.

Bedford is to have a Young Women's Christian Association, with rooms located in the central business section of the town. This was decided at a meeting of thirty women on Thursday of last week at the home of Mrs. S. S. Metzger. The women present represented the five evangelical congregations of Bedford.

Before the women had concluded their meeting, a definite plan for carrying on the work had been devised, temporary officers had been chosen and temporary committees formed, and definite work had been placed upon the shoulders of the members of the various committees. Immediately upon the conclusion of the meeting, the Committee on Rooms and Equipment, led by its chairman, Miss Durb Shuck, started out to look over the available rooms in the business section of the town, with a view of securing a home for the organization at the earliest possible date.

It is thought by members of the committee that a room may be found for the purpose that has a first-floor location. This room could then be used as a rest room for women who come to Bedford to shop Saturday afternoons. During the remainder of the week it would be in active use as a social center where the young women of Bedford might carry on various activities, such as the formation of various groups of girls interested in this or that activity, each in charge of a group leader.

It was also decided at the meeting that the usefulness of the Women's Christian Association should not be impaired by its being affiliated with other organizations, but that it should stand alone and squarely on its own feet. Days might later be set aside when the rooms could be used for lectures or receptions given by other organizations, such as those of the W. C. T. U., the Suffragists and the Anti-Suffragists.

Virtually all of the women at the meeting were strong in their support of this idea. Notwithstanding this, it is said that one or two members of the local suffrage organization are soliciting aid from the merchants of Bedford for the opening of rooms which can be used exclusively for suffrage work, at the same time offering the rooms to Saturday visitors for the purpose of doing work among those who use the rooms. It was suggested by one merchant that this second room was being opened as a "spite room," but this is denied by the suffragists. In fact, many of the strongest supporters of the Y. W. C. A. movement are members of the suffrage organization.

The women who attended the meeting elected Rev. Albert Aune, rector of St. James' Protestant Episcopal Church, temporary chairman. Mr. Aune addressed the meeting and outlined the objects of the proposed work. The following temporary committees were appointed:

Committee on Rooms and Equipment: The Misses Emily Stalter, Maude Cessna, Margaret Metzger, Mrs. E. M. Pennell, and Miss Durb Shuck, chairman.

Committee on Membership: Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. P. N. Risser, Mrs. David Prosser, Mrs. Fred Metzger and Miss Lizzie Bain, chairman.

Committee on Rules and Regulations: Mrs. H. E. Wieand, Mrs. G. W. Faus, Mrs. J. A. Eyster, Mrs. Anson Wright and Mrs. A. B. Ross, chairman.

Rev. John B. Fluke

Rev. John B. Fluke of Loysburg died January 6, 1915, at his home in the Loysburg Gap of a complication of diseases. For half a century he was a minister of the Brethren Church and was a very able speaker and a very devout Christian. In his early days he taught school very successfully and in the meantime, or during his spare moments, he studied and practiced surveying, becoming very able in this chosen profession. As an attest to this we state that he was called upon many times in his life by the National State and county governments to straighten difficult surveys and difficult mathematical calculations besides being called upon almost constantly by private corporations and individuals to do work which tangled the best of his profession. He had a cool, calculating understanding which served him best in the most trying and arduous work. He was a great reader, and kept familiar with the events of the day outside of the ministry and surveying. Every one loved, honored, and we might add, obeyed Mr. Fluke. He was a father to every one. His home is in the famous Loysburg Gap where on his widow you can read "John B. Fluke, Surveyor." Mr. Fluke was 85 years of age but the community will miss his counsel, companionship, and social and moral activities.

He is survived by a son, Frank B. Fluke, of Somerset, Pa., and one daughter, Mrs. Jacob Steele, of Pittsburgh, Pa. He is also survived by his beloved wife, who is also past 85 years and is in good health.

The funeral service will be held today at New Enterprise at 10 a. m.

Mr. Fluke has been a continuous subscriber for the Bedford Gazette for 62 years, being so far as we know, the oldest subscriber at the time of his death. He became a subscriber during Col. George W. Bowman's proprietorship.

Clymer Fletcher

Last Friday forenoon in Monroe Township, near Chapman's Run, a highly respected citizen, Clymer Fletcher, passed to his final beyond. He was familiarly known as "Tyme" and was loved, respected, honored by every one. The whole community will miss this useful, genial, kind personage for many years to come. He had a sunny disposition, quiet, unassuming and held no unfriendly disposition toward anyone.

He was born the thirteenth of December, 1865, on the premises on which he died.

He had a good common school education, was a good local musician, choir leader in the church, church worker in general, and a social factor in the community.

In a public capacity he served several terms as school director and several as township auditor in a district normally opposite to his political faith. He was a chief organizer, stockholder and officer in the Chapman's Run Mutual Telephone Company. Recently he became interested in fruit growing and had planted 4,500 apple trees and 500 peach trees which are in their bearing stages now. Had he lived for a few years longer, his new enterprise would have placed him in easy circumstances for the rest of his life.

He was a son of Jacob and Susan Fletcher, both deceased, and his wife was Bertha (Bowman) Fletcher from near Artemas, who survives. He is also survived by brothers and sisters as follows according to age: George W. Fletcher of Lewis, Cass County, Ia., editor of the Cass County Democrat; Silas W. Fletcher, a well-to-do farmer in Monroe Township; Lyman C. Fletcher, a prosperous farmer and fruit grower near Washington, D.C.; James B. Fletcher a laborer, Clearfield, Pa.; Mrs. Louisa Means, wife of Michael Means, Monroe Township; Mrs. Pauline Weimer, wife of George Weimer of Iowa; Mrs. Eugene Hartley, Piney Plains, Md.; Wilson W. Fletcher and Mrs. Frances Sipe of Fort Smith, Ark., where they are interested in a wholesale paper establishment.

The funeral services were held in Grace Lutheran Church, conducted by Rev. Sionaker of West End, this county, and he was buried in the Fletcher Cemetery.

Proper Dancing

The Public Ledger says Philadelphia leads all the cities of the country in educating young men and women up to the point where they prefer proper dancing to the objectionable kind. At the Corie House New Year's eve a dancing party was given by young people of Bedford who are fond of "music accompanied with rhythmic movements and steps." The ladies and gentlemen present were: Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Metzger, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Hulse, Captain and Mrs. George E. Goodrich, Mr. and Mrs. John Hughes, Dr. and Mrs. Walter E. Loitz, Mrs. Henderson Points, Miss Mary Elizabeth Metzger, Miss Margaret Hartley Metzger, Miss Alice Colvin, Miss Bess Metzger, Miss "Hoppy" Metzger, Miss Edith Smith, Miss Margaret Stiver, and Miss Rosalie Gurley, of Pittsburgh; Messrs Paul Reed, Edwin Middleton, Kulo Metzger, Neilson Horn, Thomas Enfield, Percy Smith, Lantz Knight, Raymond Plank, and Geo. J. Jordan.

Mrs. Agnes Huston Minnis

Mrs. Minnis died Sunday night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Henry C. Heckerman. Mrs. Minnis was 69 years and four months old and has been a widow for a number of years and since breaking up her home in New Philadelphia, O., has lived here with her daughter. She has been an invalid for three years and for over a year has been confined to her room.

During her life she has been active in work for "The Master" and the spirit of doing for others, especially the needy, has always predominated in her life. She was a member of the Christian Church of New Philadelphia, O.

Surviving her are two children, Frank, who is a salesman in the west, and her daughter, Beatrice, with whom she has made her home.

The funeral service was held from her late residence Wednesday afternoon and in charge of Rev. Faus, acting for Rev. Eyster, who could not be present on account of the funeral of Mrs. Eyster's father in Lancaster about the same time.

New Year's Party

Last Friday evening Miss Nora Blackburn delightfully entertained a number of friends at a New Year's party. It was a progressive affair. At each of five tables there was some cleverly planned amusement pertaining to the New Year.

The house was beautifully decorated with spruce. The delicious luncheon deserves special mention, it being served in such tasty manner. Before leaving the Blackburn home each guest drew a favor with a New Year's resolution attached.

Those who were so royally entertained by Miss Blackburn were Mrs. J. Howard Feight, Misses Maude and Lulu Naus, Mary Bittinger, Grace Stewart, Martha Weisel, Gesta Brightbill, Bess Corle and Emily Shires; Ellis Van Horn, Ross Lysing, Paul Naus, J. Floyd Murdock, Clarence Shoemaker and Walter Feight.

Clearville

January 5—On the last day of the old year the following persons were the guests of James Leasure and family, viz: Daniel Stayer and wife and Mrs. Samuel Pennell of Everett, Rt. 3, Mrs. J. W. Troutman, Mrs. Marshall Troutman and Rev. D. G. Hetrick and family of this place.

On Friday Alonzo Bennett of Everett, Rt. 3, took his daughter, Minnie, wife of Harvey Cornell, to the Western Maryland Hospital of Cumberland, where she underwent an operation for appendicitis Saturday afternoon. She rallied from the operation and is reported as doing as well as can be expected.

Gideon, wife and daughter Martha spent New Year's day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Snyder of Everett, Rt. 3.

Saturday night Rev. D. G. Hetrick was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. P. Adams of Chaneyville, where he met their grandson, Byron Adams, who is a member of Uncle Sam's navy, having charge of one of the big guns of the battleship Kansas which is now at Philadelphia. He is spending his furlough of fifteen days with relatives in this county, after which his ship will leave for the Panama Canal enroute to San Francisco, Cal.

The following persons were guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Boor of Chaneyville, viz: William Kneel, wife and son Paul, Miss Jessie Means and Rev. D. G. Hetrick. Rev. W. G. Sionaker and wife of West End were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fletcher Monday night. Mr. Sionaker was formerly pastor of the Mt. Pleasant Lutheran Church, and was called back to officiate at the funeral of Clymer Fletcher, Monday afternoon at the Grace Lutheran Church. Gideon was glad to see his old friends again and have a friendly chat. They returned to their home on Tuesday.

The Union Sunday School held its Christmas service Sunday evening. The Christians had the church papered and new flues put up which greatly improved the appearance. The church was crowded and the service was good, at the close of which all the scholars received an orange and a package of candy. Gideon.

OUT OF THE MOUTHS OF BABES, WISDOM

Little Miss Fell Tells Expert Much They Didn't Know About Turkeys.

State College, Pa., December 30.—After solemn, spectacled experts had delivered long lectures to a group of attendants upon "Farmers' Week" here today, Miss Aileen Fell, who is only twelve, got up and told them all she knew about turkeys, which is a lot.

She said that the habits of the wild fowls should be studied by those who wish to raise them in captivity. They ought to live in the woods and have plenty of room. The best brood she ever raised was when she allowed a turkey hen to conceal its nest in the forest. The hen brought home her brood in splendid shape.

"I believe," said little Miss Fell, "that turkeys can be raised with profit on any farm where they have a small boy, or a small girl like myself, to run after them."

The youngster lives in Transfer, N. J., and is a niece of Chief Justice D. Newlin Fell of Philadelphia. She received more applause than all the professors.

WASHINGTON LETTER

Interesting Notes From Our Correspondent at National Capital.

Washington, D. C., January 5.—The United States government has dispatched a long note to Great Britain insisting on an early improvement in the treatment of American commerce by the British fleet, and giving warning that much feeling had been aroused in this country over unwarranted interference with legitimate foreign trade of the United States. The document constitutes the strongest representation on the subject made by the United States to any of the belligerents since the outbreak of the war.

Reimbursement alone for cargoes note states, does not remedy the evil, as the chief difficulty is the moral effect of British practice on American exporters, who are restrained from taking risks or hazards which in no case ought to surround legitimate trade between the United States and other neutral countries. The German government has formally notified the State Department that American consuls in Belgium must be acceptable to the German military authorities. The United States has consular representatives only in Brussels, Antwerp, Liege and Ghent, and since the war began they have had little work to do, except to look after refugees and aid in relief work.

Additional reports to the British embassy from the British Minister at Panama clarify the situation as to the use of wireless by British colliers in the Canal Zone waters from which it appears that a British ship did violate the rules of neutrality at the Canal Zone, and that Colonel Goethals's request for naval vessels to safeguard neutrality was proper.

The patronage fight between the President and the Senate still remains acute. If the nominees for the new Federal trade commission were obnoxious to Senators, it was stated by a Senator, that in all probability these nominations will provide the supreme test in the controversy that is now on.

The Bureau of Corporations, which will cease to exist when the Federal trade commission is organized, has made a survey of the whole industrial and commercial field in order to obtain facts relative to any branch of industry. The trade commission will begin its work with the results of this survey in its hand, and backed by the force of trained officials who will be automatically transferred from the Bureau of Corporations to the trade commission.

Speaker Champ Clark and Mrs. Clark have announced the engagement of their daughter Genevieve to James M. Thompson, editor of the New Orleans Item. The wedding will take place in the spring or early summer at the Clark home in Bowling Green, Mo. Miss Clark met Mr. Thompson in Baltimore during the 1912 Democratic Convention, in which he was one of the leaders of the fight to nominate the speaker for Presidency. Mr. Thompson spent a portion of the holidays with his fiancée in Washington.

President Wilson celebrated his 58th birthday at the White House this year, and received a shower of congratulatory messages from all over the world. Members of the Cabinet paid the President a visit to congratulate him. Among the first greetings to be received from European monarchs was one from King George of Great Britain.

$100 Reward, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

The Old Mule

An old bay mule put three autos to ruin before him which were in their pride of paint and glitter. The first touring car which encountered the old mule drawing his cart bumped into the cart, knocked it into the gutter and missing the mule, which stood stalk still in the middle of the road, plunged over a retaining wall and smashed into a heap. Then came another nice big, shining car which tried to escape the old sleepy mule and poured also down over the embankment. The occupants were rescuing themselves in the dark and saying some nice things about mules when the third car came up, a racer, hit old "sleepy eye" in the business end, which was turned toward the racer, lifted him off his feet but when he came down again he was thoroughly awake and determined on doing some business. He gave his antagonist blow after blow in the side with both heels and landed it also in the heap to the side of the road.

FARM ROULETTE

MAKE CHICKENS ROOST HIGH
Health and Vitality of Young Fowls
Injured by Overcrowding When Placed in Small Coops.

Because overcrowding in small coops placed near the ground tends to injure the health and vitality of young chickens, it is advisable to teach them to use perch roosts as early as possible and practicable.

James G. Halpin, in charge of the poultry department of the college of agriculture of the University of Wisconsin, lays much of the blame for mortality among young chickens during the early winter months from roup and similar diseases to a neglect on the part of their owners in not seeing that they are placed on roosts early in the season.

When chickens are left out on frosty nights in an improvised shelter they are sure to huddle close together and in this way the bodily temperature is raised far above normal, making it easy for them to catch colds, which often lead to fatal diseases. Further development, so important to fowls in the northern states, is also retarded as a result of these improper housing methods.

The charge that "crooked breast" is a sure result of placing chickens on roosts too early in the season is partially refuted by Mr. Halpin, who believes that by using flat perches most of the danger from that trouble may be avoided. He recommends that two by four, turned edgewise, be used for roosts where the span to be covered is over eight feet.

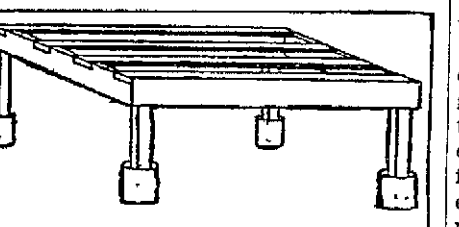

If the house or coops, in which the young chickens have been sheltered during the summer months, are large enough and nicely ventilated, perches may be installed and the young flock accommodated in them.

Whenever it is found necessary to coop the young chickens in with the older fowls, a screen should be used to keep the two flocks separate until the young chicks become strong enough to roost with the others.

BARRIERS FOR ALL VERMIN

Roosts Laid on Frame Supported by Four Legs Placed in Cans of Oil
Keep Mites Away.

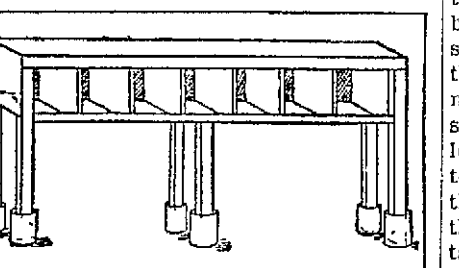

These two drawings will give you an idea of a scheme I have put to use to keep mites off the roosts and out of the nest boxes. I am not troubled with mites now as they cannot get to the hens. The roosts are laid on a frame which rests on four short legs, writes Mrs. G. Ogburn of Snyder, Okla., in Farmer's Mail and Breeze.

Level and Easily Movable.

The legs are placed in tin cans and the cans are kept partially filled with coal oil. The nest box is also mounted on four legs set in cans containing coal oil. The box must not come in contact with the wall at any point. This arrangement is especially good for sitting hens.

Of course these devices alone will not keep the mites down. They are only helps. I clean out the house thoroughly and keep it so. I scald it out frequently and throw ashes about on the floor. The hens seem to like their quarters for I often find them taking a dust bath in the ashes.

Kill Disease Germs.

A couple of grains of permanganate of potash in a couple of quarts of water will kill disease germs in it. This permanganate will at first turn the water red. It is fine for roup or colds, also it kills all that low animal life that makes slime and green scum on the bottom and sides of the drinking vessels.

Old Hen and Brood.

Don't allow the old hen and her brood to run in the poultry yard with older fowls, but keep them on a clean, fresh plot of earth away from the flock.

Careful in Feeding Cornmeal.

Be careful about feeding cornmeal wet up. It is all right as a change as the chick grows, but not as a steady diet—too heating and constipating.

Temperance

(Conducted by the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union.)

NO SURRENDER!

In every moral struggle foreign-born citizens have fought with native Americans to bring victory to the cause of righteousness. Many foreign-born citizens are today struggling with native Americans to crush the saloon, but, unfortunately, numbers of native Americans join the enemies of law and order and sobriety and bring defeat to the cause of righteousness. It is pitiable that descendants of Revolutionary heroes and warriors of later wars say we must surrender to the blind pig keeper and bootlegger. They haul down the stars and stripes and let the lawbreakers hoist the black flag of riot and ruin.

Every license vote is a white flag of surrender to the lawbreakers. Brave Americans, native and naturalized, will not surrender to anarchists. Lawbreakers shall not rule this land of ours. The saloon, the enemy of our country, must go!—John F. Cunneen, Labor Leader.

WORKMAN AND THE SALOON.

I have worked in the factories, mills and mines of this country for many long years, and have seen the effect of the liquor traffic upon the security of the workingman's employment. In all legitimate occupations, the total abstainer has had the preference, for he can be relied upon to be at his work when he is expected, and not spend one-third or one-half of the first part of each week in getting over the influences of a drunken carousal. The railroad companies will not employ an engineer or a conductor that frequents the saloon, and in many other industrial walks the same rule obtains. Everyone backs such corporations in this stand, and the workingmen are beginning to realize what such a practice means to them. When they fully appreciate the situation, there will be an absolute end to the liquor traffic.—John B. Lennon, Treasurer of the American Federation of Labor.

WORK TOGETHER.

The temperance platform is as broad as the earth and as wide as the world. Its limits are marked only where liquor ceases to flow. There is room on that platform for all; nor can any race, creed or nationality monopolize it. It is a signal fact and propitious sign of the times that the Catholic priest and the Protestant minister can, and do, stand side by side, shoulder to shoulder, on that platform. The cause is God's and humanity's. We shall battle for the cause whether on the lower plane of temperance or on the higher ground of total abstinence; whether in the lesser ranks or in the larger files of national movements; we shall battle for the cause.—Rev. Father J. J. Curran (Pennsylvania).

CITY AND NATION'S WEALTH.

"The wealth of the city is not in its buildings, not in its banks, but in the boys and girls and the ideals in their lives. These ideals are the things that we neglect most."

This is not quoted from a sermon or a temperance lecture; it is the language of the first assistant district attorney of New York city in an address delivered before a gathering of professional men who cheered it to the echo. The Woman's Christian Temperance union believes in raising the standard of American citizenship through the conservation of these ideals. Says Mrs. L. H. N. Stevens, national president of that organization: "Blessed is the state which recognizes as its chief asset its young men and women."

DRINKING TO GET BUSINESS.

If you must drink to obtain business, forego the business. You will be solicited by all sorts and conditions of men to join them in drinking, and they will feel offended if you refuse—yet refuse. Don't think they will respect you more for not drinking. Not they! The psychology of the drinker's mind is this. He wants to see all men share his weakness, and hates the silent disapproval implied in a refusal to join him. If it is a choice between the enmity of drunk and the enmity of the man whose hospitality you refuse, take the lesser and eschew the insidious, far-reaching destructiveness of drink.—From "Letters to a Young Man," by Arthur M. Harris of Seattle, in West & Co.'s Docket.

FIGHTING ALCOHOL.

From all points of view, it is certain that we ought to battle against alcoholism with every means at our disposal if we wish to see a dyke against the spread of tuberculosis, and today we can accept the unanimous statement of the Paris Anti-Tuberculosis congress of 1905 that to fight alcoholism signifies in the last analysis to fight tuberculosis.—Prof. Tiberti Ferrara.

PERTINENT QUESTIONS.

The average American saloon takes from the people $7,300 a year. What does it give in return?

If you spend one dollar or ten dollars in saloons, what will you have for your money?

If the saloon is good, why keep women and children out of it?

If the saloon is good, why screen windows and doors?

If the saloon is good, why close it when there is a riot?

BURIED HAND ITCHED

Losers Then Dug it Up, Straightened Fingers and Had Relief.
Georgetown, Del., January 4.—Suffering intense pains in a hand which had been amputated and buried, Lewis Jefferson of Blades had no relief until the hand was uncovered and the fingers straightened out, since when he has felt no more pain.

The strange story is vouched for by Jefferson himself, who had his hand cut off by a circular saw at the Allen mills several weeks ago. During the past week he has been suffering with severe pains and with an itching sensation in what would have been the palm of his hand.

Unrelieved by physicians, the young man acted on the advice of friends and dug up the amputated hand, which had been buried for nearly six weeks. The fingers of the hand were found in a cramped position. After straightening out the fingers and weighting them so that they could not again double up, the hand was re-buried. All pain left Jefferson at once, and he claims that he has suffered no inconvenience since.—Philadelphia Record.

Duruy's History of the World

Four splendid cloth volumes, full of portraits, sketches, maps, diagrams

Today is the climax of a hundred years of preparation. Read in this timely, authoritative, complete, AND THE ONLY CONDENSED classic world history—of which over 2,000,000 copies have been sold in France alone—just what has taken place in the inner councils of Europe during the past one hundred years. Read in these entrancing pages how Russia has for years craftily been trying to escape from her darkness—to get a year-round open port, with its economic freedom. Read how Germany and Austria, fearful of the monster's latent strength, have been trying to checkmate her and how they have pinned all in this last, supreme stake.

The Lesson of the Past

THIS master of the pen shows you the story that was Greece's and the grandeur that was Rome's. He guides you through the Middle Ages, the picturesque old days of feudalism and the crusades; through the Renaissance up to contemporary history, which Prof. Grover completes in brilliant manner. In the story of the past you get the Review of Reviews for a year—for the Review of Reviews will give you a sane interpretation of the events that are taking place with such rapidity. It is not enough to read the daily news reports. Your ability to comprehend conditions, and to discuss them rationally depends on a true interpretation of the meaning and the "reason why" of events. In your mind you must bring order out of chaos—and the Review of Reviews will do it for you.

WELCOME GEESE.

An Unexpected and Badly Needed Feast in the Arctic.

Noah in his ark could not have been more delighted over the return of the dove than were the members of Einar Mikkelson's party, in the desert of Greenland ice, with the sight of a flock of wild geese. In "Lost in the Arctic" Captain Mikkelson tells of their need of food, of the fatigue of a long sledge journey and of his own illness. He had become so weak that he was obliged to ride on the sledge. Consequently their progress was very slow.

We drive on between a lot of little islands or banks of glacial ice. Suddenly Iverson makes a snatch at the sledge, causing the dogs to halt in astonishment, and whispers eagerly, "Look, look! What's that?" He points to something that looks like a lot of round stones, and I can scarcely believe my eyes. It is a big flock of geese, sitting there sound asleep. They have not heard us. In a few seconds Iverson is on his way toward them. I of course remain where I am on the sledge.

He takes aim, fires and the whole flock rises. Stop a minute! Isn't there one on the ground? I snatch up the glass. Not one, but two are left upon the field, and after following the shrieking flock a little way Iverson returns, beaming with joy, a big fat goose in either hand. We are delighted and drive off southward in the best of spirits. Iverson even stops every now and then to feel the splendid fat bodies of the birds, and we do nothing but talk of what a feast we are to have when they are cooked. The dogs are doing their best. Iverson marches at the rear of the sledge, singing at the top of his voice, and even I feel a little better.

An Appeal to the Sense of Beauty

By EUNICE BLAKE

Dr. Worthington was the physician of the upper ten thousand—not a physician of the upper ten thousand, but the physician of that class. He was thirty-five years old and considered the handsomest man of the city in which he lived and practiced his profession.

One night a lamp exploded in the home of a young widow, setting fire to the clothes of an old lady, a member of the family, and burning her so severely that she lived but twenty-four hours after the accident. Every doctor in the neighborhood was called in, among them Dr. Worthington. There was little that could be done for the patient, who was known to every doctor there, but there was a great deal to be done in calming those present. As soon as the physician of the upper ten thousand entered practitioners earning a beggarly $5,000 to $10,000 a year instinctively withdrew into their shells, and when he spoke in his musical baritone voice a few words enjoining quiet a calm fell upon every one in the room.

Mrs. Allandale, the young widow in whose house the accident occurred, was so impressed with Dr. Worthington's aristocratic bearing, his self control and that influence he possessed over his fellow beings, especially women, that she resolved to win him for her second husband. Mrs. Allandale had heard a story about the doctor's having to employ a chaperon at his office and realized that her game must be played with great delicacy in order to be successful.

About a week after the death and burial of the person who was burned Dr. Worthington was called to visit Mrs. Allandale. He responded at once and found the lady reclining in her library, where logs blazed in a gothic fireplace. She had on a pale blue silk negligee—she was a blond—and a lamp shaded in pink was on a little table beside her. The blue was especially becoming, and the pink lamplight on her complexion added to the pleasing effect. Dr. Worthington was perfectly aware from the moment he entered the room that the lady's intentions were those of women from whom his duenna was expected to protect him. But, oh, how different this appeal from the others!

The lady did not extend her finger tips; she did not smile; she simply said:

"Doctor, in the dreadful experience we have had in this house my nerves have been severely strained. I sleep very badly, have no appetite and am subject to a twitching of the muscles, especially when passing into a slumber. I would like you to give me a sedative, a tonic or whatever you think I require."

The doctor placed the tips of his thumb and fingers on the lady's wrist, looked wise, sympathetic and respectful, all in one glance; then, taking out a blank slip, wrote a prescription.

"This is merely a light sedative," he said. "I do not attach much importance to it, for the shock you have received must wear off gradually. I would advise diverting your mind so far as possible—social affairs that are to your liking—nothing that will bore you—amusements and, above all, the company of those with whom you are congenial and who interest you."

"Thank you, doctor. I dare say you are right. I noticed how you quieted us all at the time of the accident, and I rely more on your personal influence than your medicines. I should be glad to have you call as often as your other professional and social engagements will permit, for I feel quieted already. I am quite sure that treatment by influence, such as is practiced by Christian Scientists and other like sects, will do me a world of good. But, of course, I do not mean that you are to give me more of your valuable time than my share."

There was some desultory chat, after which the doctor withdrew, promising to call again in a few days. Mrs. Allandale told him that she required soothing more in the evening than in the daytime and she would be glad when he could find it convenient to call between 8 and 11 o'clock p. m. He promised to do his best in this respect.

A few days later the doctor telephoned Mrs. Allandale that he must visit a patient in her vicinity that evening and would call if she thought he could be of any service. She replied through her maid that she was much depressed and begged that he would surely come.

When the doctor called he found his patient sitting on one end of a sofa, robed this time in a commingling of pink and lace, with a jack rose in her hair, the latter taking the place of the lamp shade that had before given a becoming hue to her complexion. He made bold to sit on the other end of the sofa, and when he felt her pulse he left his fingers on her wrist longer than before.

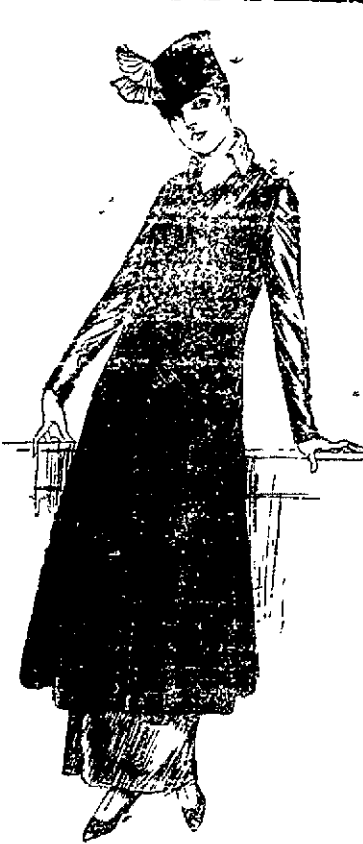

The doctor's visits became more and more frequent, and every time he called he found Mrs. Allandale in a costume which was a more becoming creation than the last, and at each call there was a different lamplight or screen set near her for her complexion or a different flower in her corsage or her hair. What could not be accomplished by ordinary means was brought about by such appeals to the doctor's senses. Her efforts were successful, and in due time he proposed and was accepted.

THOUSANDS FIND WORK IN THE RESUMING MILLS

Steel and Its Components Mainly Benefited by the New Industrialism.

Pittsburgh, January 4.—With work ahead for many months, 300 additional men will be given employment when the Pittsburgh Crucible Steel Company, at Midland, places its new merchant mill in operation tomorrow. The new mill has just been completed.

Work is being rushed on a new bar mill, a new coupler shop and a plowshare mill. The first-named will go into operation February 15 and will give employment to 400 men. The last-named two will not open until spring. Several million dollars are being spent by the Crucible Company in extending its big plant here.

It is announced in Monessen today that the Pittsburgh Steel Company will be in full operation by February 1. The wire mills have been working overtime for several months, but the other departments were slack. Since January 1 two rod and two nail mills have resumed operations. Seven hundred men are employed in these departments.

One thousand employees of the Forlansbee Brothers, at Follansbee, Va., returned to work today. These mills partly suspended operations some time ago, because of lack of orders.

The Labelle plant of the American Sheet and Tinplate Company in Wheeling will resume operations in full about January 20. Close to 1,000 men are employed in the plant. Nine hundred miners employed in the Pluto Coal Company broke with the Miners' Union and returned to work at Portland, O., today.

Many large orders for war materials are going begging among local steel companies because of the short time given in which to make deliveries. Few mills in the Pittsburgh district are prepared to do more than turn out these materials in the rough, and to furnish them even in the semi-finished state, as stipulated, would involve much time and the installation of considerable machinery.

Work Enough for Months

Chester, January 4.—Operations were resumed in all departments at the South Chester Tube Company's plant today, more than 300 men being given employment. The plant has been worked on slack time for nearly a year.

On official of the company says the outlook is very bright, sufficient orders having been received to keep the works busy for several months.

Gives Work to 800

Our navy is to be increased by two dreadnoughts, six destroyers, ten submarines and a great number of arships. The addition will cost about $150,000,000. This has only passed the committee's hands but will likely be executed by House and Senate if not increased. Our navy has been on the decline for decade but no one seemed to realize it until the war in Europe set them to consider. Even Roosevelt never dreamed of it until within the last few weeks. ## YOUNG MEN MEET

The officers elected were as follows: President, J. Dale Diehl; Vice President, Fred Sammel; Clerk, Harold Smith; Treasurer, William Beam. The board of directors was made up of two men from each of the evangelical churches of Bedford, in addition to the officers of the Association. Those who were elected to serve on the board of directors, besides the officers, were the following: From the Methodist Episcopal Church, Dr. C. R. Grissinger and William Davidson; from the Reformed Church, William Weisel and Milton Enfield; from the Lutheran Church, H. B. Cessna and J. Roy Cessna; from the Presbyterian Church, J. Anson Wright and Arthur Russell; from the Protestant Episcopal Church, John C. Lyon and Schell Ridenour.

At a meeting of the board of directors Tuesday night, the following committees were appointed: Finance, H. B. Cessna, J. Floyd Murdock, Arthur Russell, M. W. Corle, W. E. Beam and P. N. Kissner, chairman. Social, A. C. Brice, Howard Steiner, Milton Sammel, D. Clyde Cessna and J. Dale Diehl, chairman.

Membership, John Dull, W. J. Davidson, E. Cleaver, Clarence Otto, H. G. Davidson, Schell Ridenour and A. B. Ross, chairman. House Rules, William Weisel, Ross Lysinger, Dr. C. R. Grissinger, Samuel Russell, Raymond Burke, Ray Plank, J. Roy Cessna and Schell Ridenour, chairman. Athletics, Fred M. Smith, Ray Plank, John Brice, Guy Blymyer, Ross Lysinger, N. R. Horne and Harold Smith, chairman. Junior Work and Junior Quarters, O. N. Shaffer, Fred Sammel, Dr. Harry Brightbill, Frank V. Lessig, J. Roy Cessna, A. E. Ross, chairman.

Religious Work, J. Anson Wright, Fred Sammel, Elias Gibson, James Davidson and C. R. Grissinger, chairman.

Rev. Albert Aune was elected to serve on the religious work committee, but declined. Mr. Aune suggested that all the ministers of the evangelical churches of Bedford be asked to act in an advisory capacity to the religious work committee. This will be acted upon by the board at the next meeting, Monday night.

The directors discussed the renting of two additional rooms, one of which shall be used for games, the other to be used during the week by the junior branch of the organization, and on Sunday afternoons to be turned over to the religious committee for use as a Bible study class room for those members of the Association who may wish to attend such a class.

The rent for the first two months for the rooms now occupied by the Association has been donated by J. W. Ridenour, and Mr. Ridenour has offered a concession in rent for a year in case the Association can see its way clear to occupy five rooms. Since it was voted to keep the dues low in order to relieve any financial hardship among the members, it will be necessary to increase the membership considerably before additional rooms can be rented.

A big factor in the success of the Association has been the support given the temporary committees by the women of Bedford. A reception held in the Association's rooms on New Year's day was attended by upward of 300 of the ladies of Bedford, and a good part of the furnishings, magazines and books were donated by Bedford women. The artistic arrangement of the rooms, and much of the work of decorating is due to the unselfish industry of the younger women of the town. The members of the Association have pledged their support to the women when the time comes for the equipment and furnishing of a sister organization.
